Introduction

§ 1 Purpose and Scope. This book is intended to provide an up-to-date chronological bibliography of published printed documents that are at least partly written in Latgalian or High Latvian. It spans a period of about two centuries: from 1725, when the earliest accessible text containing a Latgalian passage was printed, up to 1930, the year after the official Latgalian orthographic standardisation in 1929. It also includes the time of the prohibition of the publication of Latgalian books in Latin script from 1865-1904. The bibliography serves three main purposes: (1) it provides an up-to-date list of all extant printed texts featuring the Latgalian idiom and thus augments the older collections of Apīnis et al. (1999) and Seiļ (1936); (2) it provides information on the year and place of publication as well as the title, genre, authors/editors/publishers or publishing institution of these texts; (3) it provides information on where each document can be found either in the National Library of Latvia in Riga, or on the internet. The present bibliography is thus intended as a tool for researchers to identify and find access to documents in historical varieties of written Latgalian that may be relevant for their research (especially linguists, philologists, and historians), and is also aimed at a wider public that may be interested in gaining an overview of the great wealth that Latgalian literature has to offer.

§ 2 Structure. The bibliography is formatted and structured as follows. Each item – i. e. book, journal or any document published in print – receives an individual unique identifier consisting of its real or alleged year of publication (or the first year of publication in the case of calendars and journals) followed by a hyphen and a sequence of letters according to the following principle: works with titles consisting of at least three words receive a sequence that is composed of the initial characters of the first three words in majuscule; works with titles consisting of less than three words receive a sequence that is composed of the first three characters of the title as such, with the first of these three characters printed in majuscule and the rest printed in minuscule. Where no year of publication can be established, an X is provided instead of the year in the identifier. If by these rules two or more titles would receive an identical identifier, these are additionally distinguished through enumeration.

For instance, the title Wyssa Mocieyba Katolizska (at least three words) issued in 1805 receives the identifier 1805-WMK; the title Mociba Katolizska (less than three words) published in 1775 receives the identifier 1775-Moc; the title Dīva cēla roditoji uz svatu pilsatu (at least three words) issued without a year receives the identifier X-DCR, and the titles Jaunò Drywa and Jaunò Letgola (less than three words) both published in 1918 receive the identifiers 1918-Jau1 and 1918-Jau2, respectively.

All bibliographical entries are sorted in an increasing numerical/chronological and alphabetical order according to these identifiers. Furthermore, the identifiers are used for cross-referencing and in the indices at the end of this publication.

The information provided in each entry is the following. (1) In a first column, the individual identifier is given, followed by (2) the attested or alleged year and (3) place of publication in the second column. The third column contains (4) the title of each item (in italics), followed by (5) a characterisation of its genre and (6) the name of its authors/editors/publishers or publishing institution. Additionally, the third column provides (7) the catalogue number of each item in the collection Seniespiedumi latviešu valodā (Die älteren Drucke in lettischer Sprache) published by Apīnis et al. (1999) and abbreviated to S her, and (8) the catalogue number in the comprehensive bibliography Grāmatas Latgales latviešiem by Seiļ (1936) abbreviated to GL here (with GL-P standing for the Papildinājumi section containing later addenda) so that one can easily obtain further information on each item from these books. Apart from this, (9) the system number (sistēmas numura) of each item in the online kopkatalogs (Union Catalogue, Gesamtkatalog) of the National Library of Latvia in Riga is given with the abbreviation K so that a respective document can easily be accessed through the services of the National Library on-site or online. Following these references, (10) if applicable all re-issues of a given document are listed in an increasing numerical order according to their respective year of publication, and (11) the catalogue number of each re-issue in S, GL and K is provided. If applicable the catalogue numbers are followed by (12) further comments on the content, author or origin of a respective document, and (13) internet links to online resources of a document or its re-issues (in smaller typeface) so that these may be accessed directly in digital form.

§ 3. Genre Categorisation. According to the character of its content each item is sorted into at least one of 37 genre categories: (1) administration (documents relating to the administration and organisation of public affairs); (2) agriculture (documents relating to the cultivation of animals and crops); (3) anthology (collections of different more or less self-contained texts); (4) astronomy; (5) biography; (6) biology (documents relating to the description of plants and animals); (7) calendar (calendars containing a variety of information from different domains, especially agriculture and Catholic religion); (8) catalogue (lists of documents); (9) catechesis (documents relating to the popular devotion and worship of God, including prayers, religious songs, homilies, pericopes, catechisms); (10) construction (of buildings); (11) dictionary; (12) drama (dramatic narrations, usually of a religious or fictitious character); (13) economics; (14) ethnography (documents relating to the description of the character and customs of people); (15) folklore (including fairytales, stories, music/songs); (16) general education (documents relating to the fundamentals of education as such); (17) geography; (18) geology; (19) grammar (including grammatical descriptions and linguistic treatises); (20) hagiography (documents narrating or discussing the lives of saints); (21) historiography (documents narrating or discussing developments in history); (22) hydrology (documents relating to water); (23) journal (journals or newspapers of religious, or profane character); (24) liturgy (documents relating to public devotion, mass); (25) medicine (of man and animal); (26) meteorology (documents relating to weather); (27) music (especially songs of profane or religious character); (28) narrative prose (narration of fiction, usually with a religious dimension); (29) ornithology (documents relating to birds and their life); (30) patent (documents relating to religious organisation); (31) poetry; (32) politics (documents relating to political events and activism); (33) primer (documents relating to school education, including works that educate in reading, writing or calculating); (34) prose (in general); (35) religious self-improvement (documents relating to practical problems and how they can be resolved through a religious life); (36) technology; (37) travelogue (descriptions of real or fictitious travels). Where more than one genre applies, a respective entry can receive more than one genre categorisation.

In principle, all genre categorisations can be specified in more detail in brackets, so that, for instance, a work of catechesis can be specified as containing prayer, music/hymns, or sermons, and likewise a primer can be specified as targeting literacy, numeracy (mathematics, arithmetic), or other subjects. The details of these specifications should become clear from each particular entry and do not call for more explanation here. All genres (without specifications) and the respective bibliographical entries categorised under them are given in an Index of Genres following the bibliography. I have tried to be as careful as possible in checking and assigning the genre categories to each title, but it is to be expected that there are some misassignments in cases where I could only infer the respective genre from the title and/or bibliographical comments in S, GL and K.

§ 4 Titles and Names. Titles are given in the spelling of the original, in as far as it was possible to access this directly or in a digitised form during the preparation of this bibliography. In all other cases, the spelling of the titles follows GL, K or S (in this order of preference). As it is often difficult to distinguish between authors and editors of an early Latgalian work, all names are treated alike. Where a Latgalian work is known to be a translation, this is indicated in the bibliographical entry, and the names of the translator and original author (if applicable) are given. When works cannot be linked to a particular person as their author, translator, editor or publisher but are somehow connected with a specific institution, the name of this institution is given instead of an author name. Where no author, translator, editor, publisher or publishing institution is known or cannot be determined reliably, the author's name is given as "unknown." The spelling of the names given in this bibliography follows that of Seiļ (1936). Where Seiļ (1936) does not list a respective name, the original spelling is given. All names of individual persons and the bibliographical entries linked with them are given in an Index of Persons after the Index of Genres. Similarly, all names of publishing institutions and the bibliographical entries linked with them are given in an Index of Institutions after their Index of Persons. While I have tried to be as careful as possible in determining and assigning the authors, editors and publishers of each title, it is to be expected that I have misassigned or missed some, in which case, however, one should be able to easily determine the names of the authors, editors or publishers through taking a direct look at the respective works.

§ 5. Example. According to the description given above, the general schema of each bibliographical entry is the following:

year-letters	year place	title genre (specification); name of author/publisher/publishing institution catalogue number in S, GL and K re-issues sorted by year with catalogue number in S, GL and K further comment
		links to online resources of original document or re-issues

The following is an exemplary entry:

1786-DSU	1786 Vilnius	Dzismies swatzu uz Guda Diwa Kunga Jumprawas Maryas un Diwa swatu
		music (religious); author/publisher: Society of Jesus
		S-429; no GL number. Re-issues: perhaps 1798 (S-649, lost) and 1801 (S-686; GL-29); 1821 (S-1069; GL-39; K-000967971); 1833 (S-1345; GL-50; K-000971818); 1836 (S-1430; GL-54); 1839 (S-1559; GL-57; K-000934689/K-000934702); 1845 (S-1802; GL-63; K-000971833); 1852 (S-2220); 1854 (S-2366); 1858 (GL-95); 1860 (GL-110; K-000510794/K-000245657); 1863 (GL-134); 1864 (GL-143; K-000466512); 1867 (GL-151)
		Attributed to several Jesuits, among them M. Roth and K. Pfeiffer; possibly an earlier (the first?) edition of a later work published under the same title; no copy known of the first edition.
		1833 (Vilnius) edition: https://elibrary.mab.lt/handle/1/22777?show=full

§ 6 Final comments. This bibliography does not contain GL-1 – GL-10 and GL-14, because these either do certainly not contain High Latvian/Latgalian text or are not likely to do so. Apart from this, the bibliography contains every GL entry up to the year 1930 and even presents several items which are missing in GL but can be found in K (or the other way round).

Research for this paper was conducted in the scope of project B08 “Non-canonical alignment and agreement patterns in East Baltic” of the CRC 1252 “Prominence in Language” (Project-ID 281511265) based at the University of Cologne and funded by the German Research Foundation (DFG).

Finally, I would like to thank the Rēzeknes Tehnoloģiju akadēmija for publishing this work, Sanita Martena and Antra Kļavinska for their great editorial support, Nicole Nau for her valuable comments and suggestions, and her and Aleksey Andronov for providing me with many important resources. Special thanks go to Franziska Kovacs for her formatting support.

The Bibliography

The bibliography is divided into 9 sections covering the time span between 1725 and 1930: (I) 1725-1800; (II) 1801-1850; (III) 1851-1900; (IV) 1901-1905; (V) 1906-1910; (VI) 1911-1915; (VII) 1916-1920; (VIII) 1921-1925; (IX) 1926-1930. In order to facilitate searching for specific entries, these sections are referenced in the Table of Contents on the very first page of this document and in the running header and footer of the following pages.

1771-Ros	1771	Rosarium Lotavicum
	unknown	catechesis (prayer; rosary); author/publisher: Society of Jesus
		S-302; no GL number.
		Usually attributed to Michael Roth; no copy known.

1772-Abe	around 1772 unknown	Ābece primer (literacy); author/publisher: Society of Jesus? S-318; GL-21. Re-issues: perhaps 1788 (S-469; GL-24); 1801 (S-694); 1821 (S-1065) with a new title; 1835 (S-1389; GL-53); 1839 (S-1560; GL-58); 1849 (S-2020; GL-66; K-000971838); 1855 (S-2435; GL-76); 1856 (GL-77); 1860 (K-000247885); 1864 (GL-152) No copy seems to have survived, but one copy is reported to have been possessed by J. Zēvers (1868-1940) in the beginning of the 20th century (cf. S and GL). It is, however, very probable that all primers issued after 1772 go back to this work. New title (from 1821): “Eysa mociba del mozu barnu”. NB: The editions from 1801 onwards are usually regarded as belonging to a separate work, not the “Ābece” issued around 1772 and 1788. 1867 (Dorpat) edition: http://dspace.ut.ee/handle/10062/26816

1802-Rit 1802 Rituale Sacramentorum
Polotsk

liturgy; author/publisher: Society of Jesus

GL-31; not in K

Re-issues unknown

Contains text in Latin, Polish, German, Lithuanian and Latgalian. This edition is rather remarkable in that it features Latgalian text, while all other issues feature (Central) Latvian. The edition is tagged as a reimpressum which implies that there are earlier editions (cf. Seiļ 1936: 21f.). However, as my inquiries have shown, the earlier edition of the Rituale from 1771 (Vilnius) features text in Latin, Polish, Lithuanian and Central Latvian, not Latgalian. It thus seems that the 1802 edition is an exception.

Index of Persons

This index lists all entries of the bibliography according to their respective author, editor or publisher in an increasing alphabetical order. Where a work is authored by more than one person, its bibliographical entry is listed under the lemmas of all authors separately. The bibliographical entries in the index are sorted in an increasing numerical and alphabetical order. Works that have no known author are listed at the very end of the index under the lemma “unknown”, and works that cannot be linked to a particular person but are somehow connected with a specific institution are listed in a separate index further down below. The spelling of the names given in this index follows that of Seiļ (1936). Where Seiļ (1936) does not list a respective name, its original spelling is given.

Index of Institutions

This index lists all bibliographical entries of works that cannot be linked to a particular person but are somehow connected with a specific institution. It lists the entries according to the names of their respective institutions given in an increasing alphabetical order. The entries themselves are listed in an increasing numerical and alphabetical order. Works that have a known author or can be linked to a particular person are listed in a separate index above.

The spelling of the names given in this index follows that of Seiļ (1936). Where Seiļ (1936) does not list a respective name, its original spelling is given.
